<http://xtrelan.es>

Paper submission deadline: March 10, 2010

The “1st Conference of Young Researchers” is born with the goal of being the meeting point for the young who orient their professional career towards research in both public and private sectors. In particular, toward those developing technology-based works. The aim of this conference is to share experiences, disseminate results, encourage collaboration and, in general, enjoy the company of other young researchers within the unique ambit of Xtrelan.

Contributions

The “1st Conference of Young Researchers” solicits contributions on original and quality works that are at an early stage. It is expected that contributions do not only focus on the innovative aspects of the research, but also provide the experience of the young researchers who perform them. The contributions may be written in Spanish, Portuguese or English.

The main topics of interest include, but are not limited to:

- Software Engineering
- Parallelism.
- Computer architecture.
- Image processing.
- Grid Computing.
- Robotics.
- Telematics.
- Language processing.
- Real-time systems.
- Telecommunications.
- Industrial Engineering.

Submission Procedure

All contributions must be original, not published, accepted or submitted for publication elsewhere. All paper received after the deadline or not meeting the conditions exposed in this call for paper will be automatically rejected.

All accepted papers will appear in the conference proceedings if at least one author of each paper presents his work during the conference. The proceedings will be published electronically with the ISBN of the University of Extremadura. Submissions should not exceed 6 pages and must conform to proceedings format described at the conference web page.

Papers should be sent by e-mail to the program committee at papers@jovenesinvestigadores.com with subject "[JJI] Contribution"
